Halie is a 2015 graduate of St. Michael's Academy. She now attends Central High School where she is currently finishing her junior year. From there, Halie is hoping to attend UMASS or a college in Boston.

Upon reflecting back on her years at St. Michael's Academy, Halie feels that she developed the strengths of kindness, respect, honesty and communication. Most importantly the lesson of treating everyone with respect has stayed with her. She feels that attending a Catholic elementary school provided her with a well-rounded background in all areas of academic and moral development.

One of her most favorite memories is competing in the School of the Future project. Working in a team and learning on so many levels, was an extremely valuable experience.

When asked what was the best thing about attending St. Michael's Academy, Halie replied, "Making my friends, having great teachers and learning about my faith." She credits the school with helping her make "tons" of great friends.

Halie hopes to attend college and become a social worker. Looks like that kindness she learned will go a long way in the social work field!
